

Happy Days!
Come back—come back—thou youthful time
When joy and innocence were ours,
When life was in its prime,
And redolent of sweets and flowers.

Come back! and let us roam once more,
Free-hearted through life's pleasant ways,
And gather garlands of joy;
Come back—come back—ye happy days!

Come back—come back—'twas pleasant then
To cherish friends in love and truth,
For nothing in dispraise of men
Has soured the temper of our youth.

Come back!—and let us still believe
The gorgeous dream romance displays,
Nor trust the tale that men deceive;
Come back—come back—ye happy days!

Come back, oh, freshness of the past!
When every face seemed fair and kind,
When swart-eyed love and truth
And all the shadows fell behind.

Come back! 'twill come; true hearts can turn
Their own December into May;
The secret be ours to learn,
They come—they come—these happy days!

The Little Ones in Bed.
A row of little faces by the bed—
A row of little hands upon the spread—
A row of little round eyes all closed—
A row of little naked feet exposed.

A gentle mother leads them in their prayer,
Teaching their feet to tread in heavenly ways,
And takes this hush in childhood's tide,
The little ones of the day to cheer.

Then, tumbling headlong into waiting beds,
Beneath the sheets they hide their little heads;
Till slumber steals away their idle fears,
And like a peeping bird each face appears.

All dressed like angels in their gowns of white,
They're waiting for the dawning of the night,
And heaven will sparkle in their eyes at morn,
And stolen glances all their ways adorn.

'Ahem! Mr. Jones, I don't like to brag, but there is nobody on earth can turn a thing as well as I can whittle.'

'Pooh, nonsense, Mr. Smith!—Talk about whittling—what can you whittle as well as I can turn?'

'Anything—everything, Mr. Jones. Just you name the article that I can't whittle that you can turn, and I will give this dollar if I do not do it to the satisfaction of these gentlemen.'

'(Here Mr. S. takes the dollar.) 'Ahem! Well, then, Mr. Smith, suppose we take two grindstones, just for a trial, you know—you whittle the one while I turn the other.'

A fair "sell." Mr. Smith stared for a moment and vamoosed. The forfeited dollar was quickly disposed of by those present with great glee.

DOING A YANKEE.—Sir Allan McNa was once traveling by a steamer, and as luck would have it, was obliged to occupy a state-room with a full blooded Yankee. In the morning, while Sir Allan was dressing, he beheld his companion making thorough researches into his (Sir Allan's) dressing case. Having completed his examination, he proceeded coolly to select the tooth-brush; and therewith to bestow on his long yellow fangs an energetic scrubbing. Sir Allan said not a word. When Jonathan had concluded, the old Scotchman gravely set the basin on the floor, soaped one foot well, and taking the tooth-brush, applied it vigorously to his toes and toenails.

'You dirty fellow,' exclaimed the astonished Yankee, "what the mischief are you doing that for?"

"O," said Sir Allan, coolly, "that's the brush I always do that with."

"We,"—Barristers have a habit of identifying themselves with their clients by speaking in the plural number.

"Gentlemen of the jury," said a luminary of the Western circuit, "at the moment the policeman says he saw us in the tavern, I will prove that we were locked up in the station, in a state of intoxication."

"It is announced for the benefit of those persons who did not get a sight of the comet, that it will again appear before the public, for a few nights only, in the Autumn of 2147."

"Ginger?"—"Sah!"—"When am dat great race to come off dat dar is so much talk about?"—"What great race, Clem?"—"De human race; de great human race dat is to come off afore long."

The man who heard a call from the "voice of glory," waited for the echo; it was "gory," so he concluded to stay at home.

A Vivid Description.—Sally Jones says that when she was in love she felt as if she was in a tunnel, with a stream of molasses running in at both ends—of the tunnel.

Love is better than a pair of spectacles that make everything seem greater which is seen through it.

A young lady who was urged to study French, replied that she thought one tongue sufficient for any woman.

Why are women like bees? because the younger the sweeter.
